WHERE ARE THE OXEN

Oh, Where Are They, Now?

AND WHO WAS THEIR OWNER?

And Who is Now? That's What They All Want to Know. Were They Ryan's Oxen, or Allen & Richardson's? The Courts to Determine.

The case of the State vs. W. H. Clough, charged with stealing two pair of oxen from Allen & Richardson, was on before Judge Barney in the city court this morning. This case grows out of dealings between Allen & Richardson and Clough, the former letting a lumbering job to the latter and furnishing the oxen to do the work with. When Clough had finished he sold the oxen to Ryan, the drover from Plainfield. When Allen & Richardson heard of it they saw Clough at once and demanded their cattle. Clough said if they would settle with Ryan they could have them and he returned them to their original owners. The latter refused to reimburse Ryan and Clough took them back. On this Allen & Richardson took an oinger and went to Plainfield and replevined the cattle. When they had been brought back to this city Ryan came here and replevined them and took them home with him to Plainfield again. Allen & Richardson, nothing daunted, secured an officer and posted off to Plainfield, arriving Sunday, but alas, too late to lay hands on the cattle, as they had been shipped to Boston. When they learned that the oxen had been shipped

It would be well for any one answering the advertisement to inquire the nearest village in any adjoining county.

308 less than for the same period last year. It is also stated that but for the debt brought over from the previous year, the society, with the receipts of the last year for these 11 months, would have met its obligations to within $8000.

There remains, however, of the debt of 1895-96, $34,505, and to meet current expenses $84,494 have been borrowed. Making present bank obligations $119,000. GIVES UP THE CONTEST.

San Francisco, March 15.—Frank Butler, alias Ashe, alias Newman, the accused murderer of Captain Lee Weller, Arthur Preston, and Charles Burgess, has decided to give up his fight against the efforts of the Australian police to secure his extradition from this country. He gives as his reason for this action that he has no hope that the United States supreme court will reverse District Judge Morrow's decision, and he cannot stand the cost of carrying the matter to the court of last resort. Ultimately, he said, he would have to go on trial to this life, and the sooner the thing was over the better it would be for him. He will go back and face his accusers, and stand trial under the Australian criminal laws.

Charles A. Pratt, who has been general superintendent of the Star foundry, has rented the foundry of the old steel works on Bloomingdale road, and will give employment to some of the discharged men.

An announcement to the postoffice department from the universal postal union says the office will be established for next summer. It will be mainly for the benefit of the excursionists who find their way there at rare intervals. It will give them an opportunity to mail Spitzbergen souvenirs from that place.
