

Alter-Daoust Even Choice

Clash Tonight in Exchange Feature

Under what promoter Raoul Godbout hopes will be a starlighted sky tonight, outdoor boxing will be ushered in for Montreal at Stade Exchange. He has a good fight card lined up, and feels the weather is due to break favorably. If it doesn't prove co-operative, the bouts will be staged Wednesday night, and if not then, on Friday. But weather reports indicate that the fans will likely get a break.

There is no pronounced favoritism over the Lou-Alter-Ray Daoust ten round main bout. The boys are rated just even off their last fight, when each scored a knockdown, with Daoust finishing stronger. The fight bugs seems to think there'll be a knockout between them tonight, but they can't figure out just who will chill who. Alter is credited with the more potent punch, but both are in fine shape, and a real slugging-bee is looked for as both seek establishment as the outstanding featherweight challenger.

Pretty Even Bout

Buster Beaupre's first local appearance will be of interest because he has beaten a lot of Montreal boxers in his native Burlington. Tonight, in an eight-rounder, he takes on tough Ruby Margolum, and this rates a pretty even fight.

In the other eight, Marcel Lachapelle, a pretty smart boxer, will seek to even the score with Larry Sloan. Sloan scored a technical K.O. due to a cut eye over Lachapelle last time out.
